HORRIBLE RAILWAY ACCI- DENT.

Paris, Ont., Oct. 5.—This morning at 1 o'clock one of the most distressing and disastrous accidents that has taken place on the Great Western Railway for a number of years, occurred to the night mail east, conductor Brown, due at Paris at about 12:55, about a mile and a half west of Princeton station, the particulars of which are as follows:
The traffic of late has been so heavy that it has been found necessary to run two engines on the through trains, and last night was no exception, for on this train's arrival at London two engines were attached thereto—No. 119, Williams of Suspension Bridge, driver, and No. 25, Wm. Cooper of London, driver. The train rightly belonged to Cooper, Williams running as pilot. The train left at 12:5 a.m., consisting of a baggage and express car, one second class, four first-class, and four Wagner sleeping coaches. It was a little late leaving, but the regular running time was made all the way down.
Shortly after passing Goble's Corners, and while proceeding down a moderate grade at the usual speed, one of the under wheels of the front engine broke in two, and the broken half falling on the track, threw the second engine off the track. Engineer Williams says Cooper sounded the down brake sharply three times, and the passengers say they felt the air brakes
with which the train was supplied, put sharply on. Williams, on looking round to see what was the matter, saw Cooper's engine dancing
over the ties, and then make a dive

to contemplate is that the passengers all escaped for beyond a few trifling bruises and cuts not one of the two hundred and fifty passengers on the train received injury. The accident appears to have been one that no human foresight could have guarded against, for an examination of the broken wheel showed it to be perfectly sound without flaw or defect, and although the cars were badly knocked about the fact of their being supplied with Miller's patent coupler and buffer may be contributed to the safety of the large number of people on board. The track was blocked for over twelve hours.

AROUND HOME.

FOR ENGLAND.—The "Globe" announces that Hon. Mr. Cartwright will shortly sail for England.

The barn of Mr. Henry Watts, in the Township of Kingston, was struck by lightning, and with its contents burned down. Loss $2,000.

CONVENT SCHOOL.—A new Roman Catholic Convent School has just been opened at Belleville, by the Ladies of Loretto.

THE STEEL RAILS.—The Kingston
"News" says: "A large quantity of the steel rails bought by Mr. Mackenzie are still resting and rusting on the Penitentiary wharf.

A NEW BELL.—Mr. Mottashed, of Picton, has presented the new M. E.
Church of that town with an excellent bell, weighing over 1,300 pounds.
It was placed in [its] position last week.

ate grade at the usual speed, one of

liams says Cooper sounded the down
brake sharply three times, and the passengers say they felt the air brakes
with which the train was supplied,
put sharply on. Williams, on looking round to see what was the matter, saw Cooper's engine dancing
over the ties, and then make a dive to one side, tearing itself away from the forward engine also. The train then made one fearful plunge into the swamp at the side of the track, the embankment there being about ten feet in height. The engine landed on the side forty feet away, destroying a portion of the tender which, was turned completely round, and beneath it, lying close together, were found the dead bodies of Cooper and fireman, A. Irving, horribly bruised.
The three first cars rolled on between the engine and the track, and before the parties on the train could gather their wits about them, the baggage car took fire, and this and two other cars were soon wrapped in flames. In the baggage and express car were Andrews, express messenger, Wright, baggage master, and a Canadian passenger who was going east to attend his mother's funeral, but whose name we are unable to learn definitely at this hour of writing. If they were not instantly killed they met a more horrible end by being burnt up. In the morning nothing but their charred remains were left to tell that they had been human beings, and it is said it was only by their watches that it was possible to identify their remains.
Then came one first class car sitting straight on the track with the trucks ripped from under it; then the next car lying at right angles across the track; then the next pitched on end down into the dry swamp with such force that the earth was ploughed up against it as high as the end of the car. The first sleeping car "Paris" was straight on the track, but the running gear was all torn from under it. The other sleepers were safe. It been opened at Belleville, by the Ladies of Loretto.

THE STEEL RAILS.—The Kingston
"News" says: "A large quantity of the steel rails bought by Mr. Mackenzie are still resting and rusting on

A NEW BELL.—Mr. Mottashed, of Picton, has presented the new M. E.
Church of that town with an excellent bell, weighing over 1,300 pounds.
It was placed in [its] position last
week.

The Assizes for the County of Hastings begins its session at Belleville on Monday next. As usual, the docket is a large one. Hastings County seems to be a paradise for lawyers.

BELLEVILLE GROWING.—The Belleville assessors report the population of the town at 9,712, being an increase of over 400 since last spring.
Application has been made for an incorporation as a city.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND.—The following changes are to be made in stations:—The Rev. F. L. Stevenson, of Sterling, to Carrying Place;
the Rev. E. H. M. Baker, of Carrying Place, to Tyendinaga, and the Rev. T. Stanton, of Tyendinaga, to Trenton, as assistant to Canon Bleasdell. A fine bell has been procured for St. Peter's Church, Brockville, by Canon Mulock.

The Picton "New Nation" says:
—"Potatoes are a small crop this season, and they are therefore very scarce on the market. They are also a very light crop in other parts of the country, and prices may be expected to rule high before the close of the season. Many of the cheese factories have closed, and grass having taken a splendid start since the last rains, butter may be expected to be more plentiful on the market.
Prices still keep up, however, and twenty cents is readily given for rolls—good."

It is time the sport of kite flying was put a stop to in the streets, or serious accidents may occur from them. Yesterday afternoon, while Mrs. Cartwright was out driving, the horses attached to her carriage were frightened by a kite and started off.

was discovered, on examination, that Cooper's engine just ran five rail lengths before it made the fatal plunge, and yet in that time he whistled for brakemen three times, and set his own brakes on. His act of bravery was closed by immediate death, for no one seeing the place whence he was taken and his remains could for a moment doubt that his death was instantaneous. Word was at once conveyed to Princeton and the auxiliary cars from both London and Hamilton were speedily on the scene, bringing with them Superintendent Dawson and other officials with medical aid. As soon as possible the bodies were recovered and conveyed to Princeton station, where an inquest will be held at once.

The three burnt bodies were placed together in an ordinary dry goods packing case. The passengers on the train were transferred and sent on east while the other trains after some delay, were sent on west by way of the Grand Trunk from Paris. The

Mrs. Cartwright was out driving, the horses attached to her carriage were
frightened by a kite and started off, running with full tilt against a tree, throwing her out, but fortunately not seriously hurting her. The harness was badly damaged, and the carriage—a new one—was completely smashed. We hope the authorities will take this matter in hand, so as to prevent a repetition. It is not many years since a lady came to her death from this very cause, and a similar affair might have occurred yesterday.—"Kingston Daily News."

A BUNTING GOAT.—A couple of ladies coming from service in St.
Mary's Cathedral were placed in an embarrassing position by being confronted at a very public point by a bunting goat. They had advanced quite close to it before they perceiv-rather a sudden rally upon them, and hushed, and "chewed" to no avail, the artful dodger keeping his head swinging from side to side, and threatening to do mischief with his curly horns. The climax was reached when, by an eccentric movement, he penned the pair of church goers back and back against the fence and for a few minutes oscillated his head in such a way that neither could safely move, while the ladies talked in the kindest goat language in hopes that the capering animal would desist. One shook her prayer book at the belligerent chap, but he only released his prisoners when he had apparently enjoyed himself to the full.—"Whig."

THE AUSTRALIAN EXHIBITION.—Hon. James Skeed and Mr. J. M. Currier, M. P., have decided to send a consignment of sawn and manufactured lumber to the exhibition at Sidney, Australia, next April.

MINING.—We understand that Mr. Crevaling, the managing director of the Glendower company, has opened an iron mine on the farm of Mr. Morris, near Delta. Some thirty men will be employed. The ore will be shipped by way of the Rideau Canal to Kingston.—"Whig."

Ottawa Sept. 30.—The Canada Gazette contains the following notice: No person shall catch, kill, possess or sell white fish in Ontario between the first and tenth days of November in each year, nor salmon trout between the fifteenth of September and the first of May.

KENNETH MCKENZIE.—Mr. K. McKenzie, Q. C., at one time the County Judge of this County, has just been appointed County Judge of York County. He is a gentleman of fine ability, and has done a large amount of party work. He was deserving of a more important appointment.—"Whig."

A SINGULAR COINCIDENCE.—A telegram from Bathurst, N. B., gives the following particulars of a sad drowning case:—"The lighthouse-keeper of Carquet Island, named Narcise Poilier, and his son, were drowned on Monday last, by the capsizing of the boat while going from the main land to the island to attend the light. It is a strange coincidence that last year, about the same time, the lighthouse-keeper, named Kerr, and his son, were drowned at the same place, and almost under the same circumstances."

TO THE POINT.—The letter-stealing cry is still heard at times. Sir John himself talks of being put out of office by having desks broken open, and letters and telegrams filched. Did it never occur to him that an honest ruler could not be deposed by any such means? He might be anxious to keep his own secrets, it is true; but there must be something rotter in the state of Denmark when the exposure of those secrets revealed such a state of things that an indignant country spurned him from his seat. Honest men fear not the law

To the Editor EXPRESS:

San Francisco, Cal., Sep. 30th, '76.

Having promised before starting on my journey westward to the Pacific Coast, to drop you a few lines which might chance to be of interest to some of your numerous readers, especially the youthful portion of them, who have seen, as yet, only a very small portion of this "ball on which we live," I now venture for the first time, to take my pen in hand, for the purpose of jotting down a few thoughts for publication in your valuable paper. For the sake of brevity, the great essential, I believe, in communications for the press, I may be allowed to pass over any attempted description of the beautiful country through which I passed, both in Canada and the United States, until I reached Chicago, the great commercial capital of these western states on the lakes, where such an immense shipping is carried on in wheat, corn, pork, &c. From this place, proceeding by way of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy R. R., I had the pleasure of passing over the indeed. An employee on the railway informed me that this is the fourth season in which the "hoppers" have devastated this part of the country, and consequently ruin to the farmer is the inevitable result. The ground, fences, and buildings were in many places almost black with them. I have no doubt the suffering of the inhabitants will be very great on account of these pests. At the distance of three or four hundred miles from the Missouri we begin to feel the air getting cooler. We are gradually passing into a higher altitude up the slope of the Rocky Mountains, "the back bone of America" as the children sometimes call them. Here the antelopes are seen feeding on the grass (everywhere growing on the eastern slope) singly, in twos and threes, and occasionally in droves. Rabbits occasionally start up, not from their hiding places, as they have none, and prairie dogs are seen in abundance.—This is

A VAST TREELESS WASTE.

For hundreds of miles not a tree or bush is to be seen. We find ourselves passing perceptibly into a cooler atmosphere, until upon reaching the summit at Sherman, 8240 feet above the level of the sea, we are not displeased at having a fire lighted in the stove, and upon going out upon the platform, we instinctively button up to the chin on this warm (?) sun-shining summer's day to keep out the blasts from the lofty peaks of the mountains. Passing Cheyenne, a nice town of about 4000 inhabitants, in which are some very fine buildings we begin to descend gradually the western slope. Here among the mountain solitudes, we pass the "thousand mile tree," a solitary tree of medium size standing close to the track and just 1000 miles from Omaha. Every eye is on the alert to get a glimpse at this tree as we are rapidly speeding our way onwards. But I must stop or I shall fail to get an insertion.—More anon.

Yours truly,

O. D. S.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Monday, Oct. 9th, 1876.

The Council met at 7:30 p. m., the Mayor in the chair. Present, all the members, except Mr. Miller.

The minutes of the previous meetings

CANADIAN.

THE AUSTRALIAN EXHIBITION.—Hon. James Skeed and Mr. J. M. Currier, M. P., have decided to send a consignment of sawn and manufactured lumber to the exhibition at Sidney, Australia, next April.

MINING.—We understand that Mr. Crevaling, the managing director of the Glendower company, has opened an iron mine on the farm of Mr. Morris, near Delta. Some thirty men will be employed. The ore will be shipped by way of the Rideau Canal to Kingston. —Whig.

Ottawa Sept. 30.—The Canada Gazette contains the following notice: No person shall catch, kill, possess or sell white fish in Ontario between the first and tenth days of November in each year, nor salmon trout between the fifteenth of September and the first of May.

KENNETH MCKENZIE.—Mr. K. McKenzie, Q. C., at one time the County Judge of this County, has just been appointed County Judge of York County. He is a gentleman of fine ability, and has done a large amount of party work. He was deserving of a more important appointment. —Whig.

DUNKIN IN QUEBEC.—The County of Missisquoi, in the Province of Québec, having adopted a County Dunkin by-law by a good majority, an appeal was made against its legality, on the ground that, since confederation the Act had been repealed by the Municipal Code of the Province. The judges have decided that the Temperance Act is still in force, and other counties will move at once for by-laws.

We would advise our friends to be careful how they take along a gin bottle as a travelling companion. A Mr. Harris, of Stanbridge, a few days ago, was driving towards home, when the king-bolt of the waggon came out and precipitated him to the ground. A gin bottle in his pocket broke, and a piece of the broken glass severed an artery in his side, causing almost instant death. —Sherbrooke News.

A NEW GOVERNOR.—A despatch from Ottawa intimates that Hon. David Laird has been appointed Lieutenant-Governor of the Territory of Keewatin. His acceptance of the position will leave a vacancy in the Cabinet and in the representation of Queen's, P. E. I., in the House of Commons. Mr. Laird will make a good administrator, having made the affairs of the Northwest a careful study.

AN OLD ORANGEMAN.—The Kingston News of the 6th inst., contains the following notice of an old Orangeman: "We frequently see notices in our contemporaries of old Orangemen, and not long ago we referred to Mr. John Lewis, of this city, as one of the oldest in the country. We learn that Captain William Stewart, of Belleville, also claims the distinction of being a veteran in the cause. He was made an Orangeman

From this place, proceeding by way of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy R. R., I had the pleasure of passing over the beautiful which my young friends would be so much delighted to see, with their waving cornfields extending for miles and miles on each side of the track. In order to give them some faint idea of the extent of these cornfields, I may state, that they continue for hundreds of miles from east to west, and, I have no doubt, an equal distance from north to south. They are the principal sources for wealth to the farmers in all this vast country. They are not obliged as in Ontario, to choose this field for corn or potatoes, that for wheat, and another for barley, etc., on account of the special adaptation of the soil to the various productions, but wherever the soil is brought into cultivation, the corn is planted, or the wheat is sown, with apparently a certain prospect of being amply rewarded for the labor expended, by way of a beautiful harvest. As you approach the Mississippi river, however, these level tracts give place to a more rolling country, with an occasional ravine, which is thickly wooded with trees of various kinds, while on the uplands, forests of oaks, are seen to stretch for many miles across the country.

CROSSING THE MISSISSIPPI

at Burlington about sundown we take to our couch (?) and find ourselves in the morning approaching the "muddy Missouri," over which at a slow rate, on a bridge constructed on iron tubes for piers, which are sunk to the depth of eighty two feet below low water mark, we cross over to Omaha in Nebraska, 502 miles from Chicago. This is

A VAST TREELESS WASTE.

For hundreds of miles not a tree or bush is to be seen. We find ourselves passing perceptibly into a cooler atmosphere, until upon reaching the summit at Sherman, 8240 feet above the level of the sea, we are not displeased at having a fire lighted in the stove, and upon going out upon the platform, we instinctively button up to the chin on this warm (?) sun-shining summer's day to keep out the blasts from the lofty peaks of the mountains. Passing Cheyenne, a nice town of about 4000 inhabitants, in which are some very fine buildings we begin to descend gradually the western slope. Here among the mountain solitudes, we pass the "thousand mile tree," a solitary tree of medium size standing close to the track and just 1000 miles from Omaha. Every eye is on the alert to get a glimpse at this tree as we are rapidly speeding our way onwards. But I must stop or I shall fail to get an insertion. —More anon.

Yours truly.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Monday, Oct. 9th, 1876.

The Council met at 7:30 p. m., the Mayor in the chair. Present, all the members, except Mr. Miller.

The minutes of the previous meetings were read and approved.

PETITIONS

From Kitty McCormic, asking aid. On motion of Mr. Wilson, seconded by Mr. Huffman, $1 a week was granted her for three months.

From Wm. Ross, James Belch and others, asking that a lamp be placed between the residence of Mr. Ross and the railway bridge.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES.

From Reeve & Morden, notifying the Council that they had been instructed by Mrs. Wm. Dryden to take legal proceedings against the Town, for injuries received on plank walk on John Street, unless an amicable arrangement could be come to between them. Referred to Street Committee to report.

A SETTLED CLAIM.

A bill was received from John D. Ronald, for a branch pipe and nozzle bought some time since for use of fire company. The account was, however, settled a long time ago and was referred to the Finance Committee with power to act.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

The Finance Committee reported, recommending payment of the following accounts referred to them. —R. Clark, $3 for fixing platform scales in weigh house; $35 to Dyer Howard for 35 nights service as night watchman; $1 to Charles Dunbar for fixing scales and

We would advise our friends to be careful how they take along a gin bottle as a travelling companion. A Mr. Harris, of Stanbridge, a few days ago, was driving towards home, when the king-bolt of the waggon came out and precipitated him to the ground. A gin bottle in his pocket broke, and a piece of the broken glass severed an artery in his side, causing almost instant death.—Sherbrooke News.

A NEW GOVERNOR.—A despatch from Ottawa intimates that Hon. David Laird has been appointed Lieutenant-Governor of the Territory of Keewatin. His acceptance of the position will leave a vacancy in the Cabinet and in the representation of Queen's, P. E. I., in the House of Commons. Mr. Laird will make a good administrator, having made the affairs of the Northwest a careful study.

AN OLD ORANGEMAN.—The Kingston News of the 6th inst., contains the following notice of an old Orangeman: "We frequently see notices in our contemporaries of old Orangemen, and not long ago we referred to Mr. John Lewis, of this city, as one of the oldest in the country. We learn that Captain William Stewart, of Belleville, also claims the distinction of being a veteran in the cause. He was made an Orangeman at Kilmore, Ireland, in the year 1813, and is therefore sixty-three years a member of the Order. The venerable gentleman took an active part as an officer at the battle of the Windmill. He is now eighty-five years old and is enjoying comparatively good health.

THE DOMINION GRANGE.—At the meeting of the Dominion Grange, Thursday, the election of officers for 1877 was made as follows:—Master, S. W. Hill, Ridgeville; Overseer, S. White, Charing Cross; Lecturer, E. J. Hilborne, Uxbridge; Steward, L. R. Whitman, Knowlton, Quebec; Assistant Steward, C. McGibben, Douglas, N.B.; Chaplain, J. Manning, Schomberg; Treasurer, J. P. Page, Fontill; Gate Keeper, J. A. Dixon, Onslow, N.S.; Ceres, Mrs. Trull, Oshawa; Pomona, Miss Whitelaw, Meaford; Flora, Mrs. Lossel, Norwich. The committee on suggestions for the good of the order than presented their report which was adopted. It recommended that millers be not eligible as members; that the executive committee be empowered to procure essays on chemistry and entomology and other subjects of practical importance to farmers, such essays to be printed and distributed among the Grangers; that an hour at each meeting of subordinate Granges be set apart for social and intellectual improvement, and that the executive committee take steps to obtain the opinion of subordinate Granges as to the advisability of establishing an institution for the higher education of farmer's daughters, where the practical duties of the household, and dairy, as well as the ordinary branches of education, could be taught, and a practical knowledge of horticulture and floriculture acquired.

These tubular piers reach upwards, I should judge, some 125 feet above the water, making a total length of over 200 feet. I am not prepared to give the exact length of this bridge, but do not think I would be wide the mark in stating that probably it is upwards of a mile in length. By way of digression I may state that here the Chinamen, with their long cue hanging behind, made their first appearance. The hair is closely shaven off, with the exceptions of a small portion on the back part of their heads. The hair of this part is nicely braided into one braid, mixed in with silk threads and reaches often times within a few inches of the ground. They take great pride in this caudal appendage, and in their eyes no greater punishment can be inflicted upon them, death itself excepted, by the "powers that be" in case of crime having been committed by them, than by sentencing them to pass through the tonsorial process, as they look upon it as a most abject and utter disgrace to be deprived of the unseparable cue.—Passing about 100 miles, there we met the eastward march of that terrible plague, grasshoppers. At first their ravages did not seem so serious, but as we continued westward we found, that, although they did not darken the air, 'hide the sun from view' and hinder the progress of the train, as they are sometimes said to do, they were making sad work of it. They first trim off the leaves from the fields of corn, then the husks, and finally extract the very juice from the kernel itself, leaving nothing for the husbandman but the bare stalks, standing like naked bean poles. This was actually the case for many miles, and if they continue their march eastward the result will be dire

Mr. Gibson moved, seconded by Mr. Wilson, that the Treasurer be instructed to make a search for the missing bonds, and produce them, if possible, at next meeting.—Carried.

THE STREET LAMPS.

Dr. Ruttan, Chairman of the Street Committee, reported they had taken into consideration the information furnished by the Special Committee to whom was referred the question of lighting the streets, as to the cost of lamp post, &c.

The report was taken up and considered in Committee of the Whole. Mr. Geddes in the chair, and the following clauses passed:—

That the tender of Mr. Angus McLeod to furnish the lamp posts, and globe lamps, with everything completed, for $19 a piece, be accepted,

The Company agree to keep the lamps lighted at all times, except during day light and moon-light nights for $15 per annum.

This clause was passed by inserting providing the Gas Company furnish the gas at the foot of the gas posts free of charge.

A recommendation having been made in the report that from 25 to 30 lamps be put up, the placing of which was to be in the hands of the Committee, a lengthy discussion took place, and was the reason assigned for another week's delay, and reference again to the Committee.

The petition of Wm. Ross and others for a gas lamp, was, on motion filed.

Some accounts were ordered paid and the Council adjourned.

Literature,

The Book-Keeper's Robber.

Scattered through all the mining countries of California, perched upon the sides of mountains, or hidden in deep gulches, are the quartz mills, by means of which gold is extricated from the worthless rock that confines it. There are hundreds upon hundreds of them all over the State, some in active operation, the majority silent and deserted. You can easily tell when one is being worked. The roar of the ponderous stamps may be heard at a great distance, and in the mills themselves you can hardly hear your own voice.

Once in every week or ten days the mill is stopped. This is done for the purpose of "cleaning up," as it is called, that is, of gathering from the batteries and sluices, from the pans and amalgamators, the amalgam from which, after it has passed through the retorts, the bright gold bullion is obtained. Every one living in the immediate neighborhood of a mill knows when it is cleaning-up day. The silence proclaims it, and even if one wished, there could be no method of concealing it.

A few years ago I was employed in a mine in Nevada County as book-keeper. I was then a youngster of seventeen. I had taken a voyage to San Francisco before the mast, under the mistaken idea that I was born a sailor. Now I was working my way as best I could, in order to get a living.

The fall and winter of that year will long be remembered in that country. Light figured gentry, commonly known as foot-pads, were more than usually plenty. Stages were stopped. The treasure-boxes were rifled. Passengers were relieved of their purses, watches and jewelry. Two cripples, who kept a toll-gate, were found murdered, their safe opened and money gone. Travellers were stopped on the road, and quiet pedestrians, returning to their homes late at night, were called upon to stand and deliver.

No wonder, then, that people hesitated about travelling after sundown, especially if they had anything of value on their persons.

It was late in the month of October. The mills had been running for two weeks, night and day, on a higher grade.

I was nearly half way to town. A few rods more and I should be in a more open part of the country, and I shook the reins and gave my horse a touch of the spur. At almost the same moment he passed a turn in the road, and there, not a rod before us, stood what seemed to be a man, with rifle in hand, pointed directly at me.

What followed took actually not a minute, but to me it seemed an hour. At the rate I was going it was impossible to turn back; it was equally impossible to stop; nothing was left but to go ahead. I put both spurs to my horse, and at the same moment drew my pistol, aimed as well as I could and fired.

The sharp stroke on his sides and the report maddened my horse, and the rest of the way I made faster time than I ever made before or have made since. Not a sound did I hear behind me, and in less than ten minutes I pulled up before the express office and rid myself of my load.

I did not have much appetite for supper that night. I went early to my room, not having said a word to anyone of my adventure, and there I sat until a late hour thinking it over.

If the man was not a robber, what was he doing there at that hour, standing in the road with a gun?

If I had not killed him, why had he not returned my shot? In my ignorance, I supposed that anyone who killed another was liable to imprisonment if not to death. If this man was not a robber, was not my life certainly forfeited? Even if he was, was I not liable to punishment for taking the law in my own hands?

These and fifty other like questions came crowding through my mind. I had no friends in town, no one to whom I could go for counsel or advice. I went to bed and tried to sleep, but it was of no use; I could only roll and toss and think, and I can safely say that that night was one of the most miserable I ever spent.

Toward morning I fell into a restless sleep, from which I started every now and then as the terror of that moment crossed my mind; and so the long hours passed away and daylight came.

I had now determined what to do. I would go to the stable and get my horse, and ride out to the place and examine the ground. If I found th sharp speeches, soon secured Stephen. Sober Sarah saw several superior senior sons, so he sternly silenced Susan's sentiment.

"Sister," she said; so Stephen Sander's silly speeches still seems sweet. Shall Simon Strong's superior station stand scorned? Shall Susan Smith so stoop?"

Susan stamped. "Simon Strong shall soon see!" she said. So seizing Sarah's striped stocking, she set several stitches. Scarcely seventeen Susan—small, slender, simple. Seven scorned suitors stood sullenly seeing Stephen Sander's supremacy. Stephen serenely smiled superior, sending sincere sympathy:

Several signs showed Sarah Susan's sentiments: sometimes she sighed; sometimes sobbed, sometimes scolded, still Susan saw Stephen Sanders. She seemed sad, sullen, sulky.

Suddenly, smelling smoke, she saw Stephen standing smoking some seventy steps south. Sarah seemed sleepy, so Susan signalled Stephen—"silence!" Soon Sarah snored. Susan stepped silently southward.

"Say, sweet sylph," said smiling Stephen, "shall sweet strolls, soft speeches, sparkling satire seem silly?"

"So sister Sarah says," Susan sobbed; "she sends Simon Strong seeking Stephen's Susan."

Stephen swore softly.

"So stern Sally seeks shoemaker's society! Stephen Sanders shall surely save sweet Susan."

She still sobbed, seeming sincerely sad, supremely sorrowful. Suddenly Stephen said, smiling:

"Shall Simon Strong seek sweet Susan's side? Shall Stephen Sanders survive such subtlety. Say, Susan, shall Sanders speedily supplant Smith? Shall Susan sign some softer surname! speak!"

She sighed. "Susan Sanders shall surely supplant Susan Smith," she said.

So, stern, Sarah!

Soon Stephen Sanders, Susan Smith, safely spliced, sought Sarah. "Stern sister," said Stephen; "Speak softly, scattered smiles, scorn scolding."

Sarah scowled savagely; soon, seeing superior sense, she sobbed slightly, smiled sweetly, saluted Susan.

Seven summers saw sister Sarah sedulously spoiling Stephen's six small, sturdy sons.—Prize Story from New Dominion Monthly for October.

gone. Travellers were stopped on the road, and quiet pedestrians, returning to their homes late at night, were called upon to stand and deliver.

No wonder, then, that people hesitated about travelling after sundown, especially if they had anything of value on their persons.

It was late in the month of October. The mills had been running for two weeks, night and day, on a higher grade of ore than the average. One day, as the superintendent left the office, he gave orders that the mill should be stopped before daylight, and the work of cleaning up be begun immediately, so that it might be finished if possible before dark.

Accordingly, as soon as the first rays of light showed in the east, the engine was slowed down, the thump, thump of the stamps grew slower, until they ceased altogether, and the work began.

But when the superintendent arrived at ten o'clock, the batteries were not half cleaned. At noon an hour was lost while the hands were at dinner; and in the afternoon the foreman of the mill was busy at the furnace, retorting the amalgam that had accumulated during the week from the coppers before the batteries. Work as fast as they could, it was after five before all was ready for the great retort.

When we had seen the retort put into the furnace, the superintendent called me into the office and said:

"I've got to go to town now to attend to some business, but that bullion must come in to-night to go down on to-morrow's stage, and you must bring it. When it's ready, put it into the big bullion pack, and strap it on the pommel of your saddle; take your revolver, and when you start, ride like fun, and look out for foot-pads."

It was seven o'clock and nearly dark before the bullion was ready to be placed in the heavy leather sack. My horse, already saddled, stood at the door, and, following instructions, I strapped the sack to one pommel of the saddle, and, having loaded my revolver, I put foot in the stirrup and mounted. Morton, the foreman, shouted, "Good luck!" and away I went.

The road was a long and lonely one. There were no houses upon it. Clumps of trees were numerous and thick patches of manzanita bushes, which I had often thought would give ample shelter to robbers, even in the daytime.

As I have before stated, I was not very old, and had been but a short time that night was one of the most miserable I ever spent.

Toward morning I fell into a restless sleep, from which I started every now and then as the terror of that moment crossed my mind; and so the long hours passed away and daylight came.

I had now determined what to do. I would go to the stable and get my horse, and ride out to the place and examine the ground. If I found the man, possibly I might know who he was; if a stranger, I could be more certain that he was there with an evil purpose. At any rate, I could satisfy myself whether the shot had been fatal or not. If it had been fatal, then I would return to town, go to the Sheriff of the County, tell him all about it, and give myself up; that seemed the right and best thing to do.

No one was stirring as I led out my horse and mounted him. The sun had not yet risen, and I remember feeling glad that it had not. I did not see how it could be wrong for me to defend that which had been put in my charge, and yet as I rode out of town I felt as weighed down in spirits as it seemed possible for a really guilty man to feel.

As I neared the fatal spot, I reined my horse to a walk. I did not know more I should know if the stain of blood was on my hands. I dreaded to turn the corner, dreaded to see the still form that I fully expected to find lying in the road, but at length I gave the horse the word and passed around the corner.

Yes, there was the spot, but the road was clear before me; that was a great relief. The next moment I raised my eyes, and a peal of laughter rang from my lips that might have been heard for half a mile around.

There by the roadside stood the stump of an old tree with one lifeless limb stretched out and pointing down the road. There indeed was my robber, the victim of my maiden shot that had caused me so much misery for the past ten hours. It was some comfort in the midst of my laugh against myself to find that my aim was good, for there in the tree was the fresh mark of my bullet.

That I rode back to town with a light heart, I need hardly say, neither need I say that I tried to keep this adventure to myself; but at last it leaked out, and the story of the book-keeper's robber became as well known in that region as it is now to you.

A WHOPPER.

The following is from one of our exchanges published "Out West," and smacks somewhat, we fancy, of western extravagance. We fear the editor has been misled about the truth of the facts:

A Pennsylvania editor knows a man who had always had the idea that he could invent a self-acting sewing machine, and he did. He produced a steel ribbon-spring about twenty feet long, and of sufficient power to run a horse-car. This he rigged on his wife's sewing machine with a lot of clock work, and it appeared to him, when he finished the job that evening, that he had realized his hopes. If any sewing machine ever would go, that would; so he wound it up ready for use in the morning and went to bed. At four o'clock Mrs. Kipp roused him and told him to listen to the burglars in the house. He listened and heard a most terrific racket over in the sitting room. It appeared to him that there must be a million or more burglars refreshing themselves with a prize fight. So he loaded his gun, crept softly over, and peeped through a crack in the door. It was not burglars; it was Mrs. Kipp's sewing machine. The peg had slipped, and that spring had full play. It would rear the machine up on one end, and charge it three or four times, like a battering-ram against the glass front of the book-case. Then it would wheel around and suddenly across the room and but furiously against the mantle-piece; and it would lie down and roll over on the floor, and hammer at the sofa, and boost the centre-table, and try to jam a hole through the wall, and endeavor to leap up on the chandelier. And as Kipp entered the room it flew at him, and tore in and out between his legs, the wheels revolving like tury all the time, and the spring gradually unwinding. And then Kipp retreated and waked up the family, and got the mattress of the bed. Then they covered the machine and sat on it for a while and finally pushed it out of the window into the yard, where Kipp piled boxes

As I have before stated, I was not very old, and had been but a short time from my quiet Eastern home, where robberies on the road were sometimes read about, but rarely experienced. I don't think I was more of a coward than most boys of my age, but I could not drive from my mind all that I had heard of robberies and murders during the past months. I did have a firm intention of sticking to the bullion under my charge, but I most sincerely hoped that I should not be called upon to give it up.

My horse traveled famously. It grew darker and darker. I could hardly see the road, but he kept it as though confined by fences on either side. He was going to his stable, and was impatient for the hay and grain that he knew was waiting for him there.

SUSAN SMITH.

BY JOSIE FLETCHER.

Sad, silent, sorrowful, sat Sarah Smith, silent stitching sister Susan's summer sacque. She sighed, stitched steadily several seconds, smiling sadly. Suddenly, sister Susan, suppressing several silly simpers, spoke:

"Sarah," she said softly, "Stephen Sanders says sentiment seems specially sensible since September."

Sarah started. Seven seasons scarcely seemed six, since Stephen Sanders, seeking strawberries saw Susan similarly situated. Several successive Sundays Stephen sought Sarah's sister. Susan's sylph-like shape, small stature,

But all night, under the heap, it kept up a continual buzz and snort and hum, so that the next-door neighbor fired at it sixteen times with the impression that it was cats. Kipp has since bought a new machine, and his wife runs it with her feet. He has abandoned the study of mechanics for the present.

LACE INDUSTRIES OF EUROPE.

From the fourteenth century the art of lacemaking continued to increase and spread in all the countries of Europe. It would be impossible to enumerate all the different points that are spoken of in the histories of lace that have from time to time been written, or that occur in the inventories and wardrobe accounts of kings and queens, priests and perlates, in those five centuries. Every country of Europe—nay, every section of the various countries—has had its particular point. This is measurably the case at the present day. The lace industries of Europe form no small item in the revenues of those nations. In spite of the inventions in the way of machineries that weave imitations of every old or new point, thousands of women and childree earn their livelihood by the manufacture of needle or pillow lace (handmade), working mostly in their own cottages, in the open air, or at the windows, on the flowers or designs which are generally given out to them from the central manufactory, where the designing is done, and where are generally given out to them from the central manufactory, where the designing is done, and where the whole is put together by "bride" or "reseau" workers after the outside flower-workers have finished their part of the work. It is estimated that there are 500,000 lace-workers, mostly women and children, in Europe, of whom nearly one-half are employed in France. Almost all of these lace-workers perform their labor at their own homes. In Belgium, where there are 900 lace schools, many of which are in convents, there are no less than 150,000 women engaged in lace-making. In Auvergne, in France, there are 130,000 thus employed, most of whom work in their homes in the environs of Le Puy, which was one of the earliest centres of this industry, and where it still continues to flourish.

England produces a large quantity of pillow lace. Very beautiful specimens of the laces of Bedford, Wiltshire, Dorset, Northampton, Buckinghamshire, and Devonshire are given in Madame Palisser's History of Lace; but the principal lace-producing town of England is Honiton, in Devonshire. Honiton is the best known of the English lace on this side of the Atlantic. This was brought into modern notice and made fashionable by Queen Victoria, who, commiserating the condition of the lace-workers of Devonshire, and wishing to bring their work into demand, ordered her wedding-dress of it. Her two daughters and the Princess of Wales following her example, by ordering their wedding-dresses also of Honiton, have made it a fashionable expensive lace ever since.—Harper's Magazine.

The blame, we suspect, rests with the retail dealers, who exercise a precious monopoly. For some time past we have witnessed an increasing importation both of 'live' and 'dressed' beef to this country. Constant shipments of cattle are being made from Galveston, Chicago, New York and other ports, averaging from one hundred to four hundred head per week. More than this, a new branch of enterprise has been commenced in the 'Commercial Metropolis' of the United States, Mr. Eastman, of the Produce Exchange, having introduced the same. In future, the Cunard steamers are to carry fresh meat as cargo; iron compartments, each containing an air-exhausting apparatus, being fitted up for this purpose. The 'Abyssinia,' which left New York on the 9th inst., had on board the carcasses of one hundred and thirty head of cattle. It is an anomaly therefore, that butchers' meat should be so dear, both in London and the provinces.—Intelligence.

TYPE IN A NEWSPAPER.

The Poughkeepsie Esayle, in an article on "Mistakes in the Newspapers," says the number of type used in a paper the size of the Eagle is 600,000, the actual number of bits of metal arranged and re-arranged every day in preparing a newspaper the size of the Eagle for the press. We suppose few people think of the printing trade as the most exact and particular business, but it is. In making type, variations that might be allowed in the machinery of the finest watch would render the type useless. It is very rarely that type furnished by two separate foundries can be used together without a good deal of trouble, though they try to make it after the same standard. We read once in a while of a wonderful piece of cabinet work or mosaic work containing ten, twenty or fifty thousand pieces, the maker of which has spent months or even years of labor in producing it, and people go to see it as a great curiosity; but the most elaborate and careful fitted piece of work of this kind ever made does not compare with that the printer does every day. The man who does the first is looked upon as an artist—a marvel of skill, and if a hundred of his pieces are put in wrong side up, or turned the wrong way, it is not observed in the general effect; but if the printer, in fitting ten times as many pieces together in the same day put one where another should be, or turns one the wrong way, everybody sees it and is amazed at "the stupid carelessness of those stupid printers."

BEEF IN ENGLAND.

During the first six months in 1876 England imported beef to the value of half a million sterling more than during the corresponding six months of 1875. This shows a large increase in the trade, but that the demand is keeping pace with the supply seems to be proved by the fact that the price of butcher's meat has not come down in England. The London Echo laments its dearness, saying that “the exorbitant price is a matter of serious concern to the masses of this great city. It must more or less injuriously affect their health, strength, and comfort, and, consequently their capacity for work. Many thousand families are now debarred from the daily use of fresh animal food, inasmuch as they cannot afford the outlay which the purchase thereof would entail. The question arises—does any legitimate cause exist why meat should be practically placed beyond the reach of the people? We are inclined to answer in the negative.

MRS. YOUMANS ON PROHIBITION.

The following is a good report of an able address by Mrs. Youmans, of Picton, given at a mass temperance meeting at St. Marys last week. The report is copied from the London Advertiser:—Mrs. Yeomans was the next speaker. She announced herself as speaking on behalf of the women and children of Canada, pleading for protection. She preferred the term "protection" to "prohibition," as more accurately describing what is needed. The question of the liquor traffic she considered the problem of the 19th century. Each century has had its problems. They have been solved, and she was confident the time is near at hand when a banner bearing the inscription of "temperance" will wave over all our homes. Her heart had been stirred to its utmost depths in looking at the liquor question from the standpoint of the Bible and of desolated homes. The Bible, is opposed to all that is wrong—the injunction is "Thou shalt not?" and there is no compromise whatever. Heaven's prohibitory law is "Woe to him that giveth his neighbor drink," and it would read as well as if it were "Woe to her that giveth her neighbor drink!" Many a man who will not enter a bar-room has not the moral courage to refuse drink when it is offered to him by a woman. Recently she had talked with a drunkard, who said he believed his mother had made him so, having flavored his food with brandy when he was young. How bitter must be the thoughts of that woman who stands at the grave of her son to know that she had helped to dig the grave! There are, as Mr. Gough says, two class of drunkards—those who could give up drink if they would, and those who would give it up if they could! She reproached the use of alcohol in all cases, and she considered it little less than sacrilege take liquor at the communion table and call it the blood of Christ. (Applause.) She begged all who loved the Lord to do away with the keeping of drink in their house, and told an affecting story of a person who was a church member but still kept liquor, and from the example set, his six sons confirmed drunkards. She next attacked the licensed principle on the ground that it is forbidden in the Scripture. She liked, she said, the illustration of Mr. Knowlton of the thirty witnesses can obtain admittance. (Loud applause.) The various improvements since the passage of the Act were adverted to, and an earnest appeal made for the people of Perth to raise up and pass the Bill, the lady taking her seat amidst loud applause.

It was then moved by Mr. Jones (for Dr. Sinclair), and seconded by Mr. G. S. Climie, that it is the opinion of this meeting that the time has arrived for the passage of the Dunkin Bill in the county of Perth, and that it pledges itself to the support of such measure as soon as brought forward for the votes of the people.

ZACCHEUS.

Pardon me, if I draw a little on my imagination. Bartimeus gets into Jericho, and he says, "I will go and see my wife, and tell her about it." A young convert always wants to talk to his friends about salvation. Away he goes down the street, and he meets a man who passes him, goes on a few yards, and then turns round and says, "Bartimeus, is that you?" "Yes." "Well I thought it was, but I could not believe my eyes. How have you got your sight?" "Oh, I just met Jesus of Nazareth outside of the city, and asked Him to have mercy on me." Jesus of Nazareth! What, is He in this part of the country?" "Yes. He is right here in Jericho. He is now going down to the western gate." "I should like to see Him," says the man, and away he runs down the street; but he cannot catch a glimpse of Him, even though he stands on tiptoe, being little of stature, and on account of the great throng around Him. "Well," he says, "I am not going to be disappointed;" so he runs on, and climbs up into a sycamore tree. "If I can get on to that branch, hanging right over the highway, He cannot pass without my getting a good look at Him." That must have been a very strange sight to see the rich man climbing up a tree like a boy, and hiding among the leaves, where he thought nobody would see him, to get a glimpse of the passing stranger! There is the crowd bursting out, and he looks for Jesus. He looks at Peter; "That's not Him." He looks at John; "That's not Him." At last his eyes rested on One fairer than the son of men; "That's Him!" And Zaccheus, just peeping out from among the branches, looks down upon the God grave ! There are, as Mr. Gough says, two class of drunkards—those who could give up drink if they would, and those who would give it up if they could ! She reprobated the use of alcohol in all cases, and she considered it little less than sacrilege take liquor at the communion table and call it the blood of Christ. (Applause.) She begged all who loved the Lord to do away with the keeping of drink in their house, and told an affecting story of a person who was a church member but still kept liquor, and from the example set, his six sons confirmed drunkards. She next attacked the licensed principle on the ground that it is forbidden in the Scripture. She liked, she said, the illustration of Mr. Knowlton of the thirty pieces of silver. What was done with the money? They took it to buy a Pot-tes' Field, and called that the Field of Blood. But all the taxes paid for the sale of liquor in Canada would not be sufficient to buy a field to bury the drunkards in. The women of Rome once contributed their jewels to save the city, but the women of Canada have been contributing to pay the revenue much more precious jewels—they have been giving their boys, who have been made drunkards. She believed there is jewellery enough to pay the revenue for one year, and if there is not let us take in sewing to do it—let us go out washing—let us do anything, but save our boys. Mrs. Yeomans told of a number of affecting incidents which had occurred in the county of Grey during the agitation for the passage of the Dunkin Act, and drew a tearful picture of the career of the Youngs, who had received their schooling in a tavern. She also told of her visit to the Central Prison, where she was informed by an official that two-thirds of the prisoners were brought in by drink. She had taught a class of eight young men there one Sunday, seven of whom acknowledged that drink and nothing else had caused their imprisonment. The liquor traffic is drawing scholars from the Sunday School, drawing children from their homes, filling our prisons—and all by special Act of Parliament ! It is a shame and disgrace to take a revenue from such a source. Even the dark ages are raising up to condemn us. We remember the Chinese emperor who refused to permit the introduction of opium on the ground that he would not receive money from what debased his subjects. "Noble old heathen !—I'd like to see him in the Dominion Parliament !" (Applause and laughter.) It

Him. "Well," he says, "I am not going to be disappointed;" so he runs on, and climbs up into a sycamore tree. "If I can get on to that branch, hanging right over the highway, He cannot pass without my getting a good look at Him." That must have been a very strange sight to see the rich man climbing up a tree like a boy, and hiding among the leaves, where he thought nobody would see him, to get a glimpse of the passing stranger ! There is the crowd bursting out, and he looks for Jesus. He looks at Peter; "That's not Him." He looks at John; "That's not Him." At last his eyes rested on One fairer than the son of men; "That's Him!" And Zaccheus, just peeping out from among the branches, looks down upon the God-man in amazement. At last the crowd comes to the tree; it looks as if Christ were going by; but he stops right under the tree; looks up, and says, "Zaccheus, make haste and come down." I can imagine the first thought in his mind was, "Who told Him my name? I was never introduced to Him." Ah! He knew him. Sinner, Christ knows all about you. He knows your name and your house. You need not try to hide from him. He knows where you are, and all about you.—D. L. Moody.

The New York correspondent of the Boston Gazette has this :
This city is teeming with romance and tragedy, if one only knew just where to look for it. I was walking up Fourteenth street, yesterday, with a lady, and as we passed an elegant brown stone house, surrounded by a large garden, between Fifth and Sixth avenues, she said : "Do you see that house?" "Yes," said I, "and I have often noticed it, and thought what fun it would be to live in such a place." The people who live there don't find it such fun," she replied, and continued, "in the back bedrooms of that house lives a lady who has not seen the light of day for years." "Poor thing," said I, "is she stone blind?" "No ; she is not blind at all, but sees as well as I can," and she turned a pair of the brightest brown eyes in the world up to mine. "Explain yourself, pray," said I, "what is the mystery?" "There is no mystery—only the lady I speak of, who is still a young woman, lost her only child some years and before she had recovered from the shock her husband died. the city, but the women of Canada have been contributing to pay the revenue much more precious jewels—they have been giving their boys, who have been made drunkards. She believed there is jewellery enough to pay the revenue for one year, and if there is not let us take in sewing to do it—let us go out washing—let us do anything, but save our boys. Mrs. Yeomans told of a number of affecting incidents which had occurred in the county of Grey during the agitation for the passage of the Dunkin Act, and drew a tearful picture of the career of the Youngs, who had received their schooling in a tavern. She also told of her visit to the Central Prison, where she was informed by an official that two-thirds of the prisoners were brought in by drink. She had taught a class of eight young men there one Sunday, seven of whom acknowledged that drink and nothing else had caused their imprisonment. The liquor traffic is drawing scholars from the Sunday School, drawing children from their homes, filling our prisons—and all by special Act of Parliament! "Noble old heathen!—I'd like to see him in the Dominion Parliament!" (Applause and laughter.) It is a libel upon Canada to say that she cannot pay her revenue till she is made drunk! (Renewed applause.) She blamed the government, but the government is not that at Ottawa or at Toronto—the government is the free and independent electors. She urged the people of Perth to stand up at the polls against the legalized schools of vice. At the great temperance meeting at the Centennial it was admitted that Canada stood the fairest chance for prohibition, and now is the time to strike for glory. Mrs. Yeomans next spoke of the passage of the Dunkin Act in Prince Edward, and how the hotel-keepers, who closed up during the Assizes in order to incommode the visitors, had been outwitted by the temperance people throwing open their houses. The dealers were trying all they could to overthrow the law, expressing their determination to carry the matter to the highest courts—even to the Supreme Court of Heaven itself. Here, however, we are not afraid of them, for none of their

Since that time she has not left those rooms—the shutters are close and the gas is kept burning, just as on the night of her husband's death, so that she may make no note of time; and there she sits, waiting patiently for the voice that shall call her to that country where there is no night." "What a very sad story," said I, as I looked back over my shoulder at the house, which seemed to gather the shadows as they passed; "it is a Miss Haversham case in real life." "The only difference," said my friend, "being that this lady's mind is as clear as the noonday sun. She is only dead to the world because her world is dead."

American silver has taken another tumble in the Canadian market. Half dollars are now taken for 40c., and quarter dollars for 20c. This is their market value here, and we would strongly urge all who intend going to the Centennial to take American silver with them to be used in the way of small change.

A NEW ORGAN.

The Licensed Victuallers Association of Ontario have resolved to publish a newspaper, in Toronto, as an organ, to vindicate the interests of the liquor sellers and liquor manufacturers. The prospectus of the new journal—"The World"—has been issued, and it sets forth its design. The prospectus claims that by the workings of the new License Act 1,500 persons have been thrown out of employment, because, we suppose, of the decreased number of places where liquors are sold, and a decreased consumption. Whatever alarm this may create among those directly engaged in the traffic, it will not be considered an unhealthy indication by the general public. The general agitation in favour of Dunkin by-laws, in the different counties, is a strong reason given why there should be a general "rouse to vindicate the just rights" of the trade. The new paper is to be under the editorial control of the noted E. King Dodds, who has distinguished himself during the past few months as a travelling champion of the Conservative party, in company with Sir John A McDonald, Boulton, and other famous champions of the Opposition. Under the circumstances every one would expect to read in the prospectus the announcement that is made that "the editorial tone of the paper will be they need cultivation, and ornamentation. Could not our children be amused as well as instructed, if got to assist in tree-planting, and in the cultivation of shrubs and flowers about the grounds?

THE KINGSTON ROLLING MILLS.

A meeting was held in Kingston on Wednesday evening of last week to consider the establishment of ironrolling mills in that city. In regard to the opening for such a branch to industry the chairman, Dr. Evans, stated the following facts:—

"Scrap in Kingston costs $14 per ton, freight to Oswego $1, duty $0.20, equals $22.20 delivered in Oswego; freight thence to Syracuse, where it is manufactured into bar $1.50, freight back to Kingston $2.50, duty $2, expense of manufacture $11; making a total of $39.20, against $26.00 for its production on the spot. The market price of scrap iron is $15 per ton; manufactured into merchant bar it sells for $40. With an outlay of $50,000 for permanent works twelve tons can be manufactured on every working day of the year, thus producing an income of $50,000."

As it now is, the ore mined in the County of Frontenac is sent to the United States to smelt. It is claimed that it would be cheaper to bring the coal to the ore than to take the ore to the coal. In Kingston lime is abundant and of good quality, and wages low. It was therefore urged that a better plan would be to start with the erection of smelting works, to manufacture the raw ore into metal, rather than the manufacture of scrap iron. Doubts were expressed whether enough scrap iron can be procured to keep rolling mills at work in this Province. It was stated, however, that about 12,000 tons of scrap iron were expected last year, one third of which quantity would be enough.

The meeting adjourned without any definite action.

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION.

The London Advertiser makes the sensible suggestion that the time of holding the Provincial Exhibitions should be extended to two weeks, instead of three or four days as at present. So far as the exhibition of the live stock is concerned there are strong reasons for allowing the time to remain as it now is, as farmers do not care to have their horses and cattle so long away from their farms, and on heavy expense, but in other respects there are many advantages from extension. There are a good many other indications that the Conservative party and the Liquor party are in perfect harmony.

PHYSICAL SPORTS AT SCHOOLS.

We are pleased to notice the additional attractions that have been made to our school grounds, at the suggestion, we believe, of Mr. Mathison, Head Teacher. During the last month swings, bars and other gymnastic apparatus have been fitted up, in a substantial manner, for both the boys and girls, and the children seem to be enjoying them immensely, during their play hours. It is a wonder that nothing of the kind had been previously provided. It is a freely admitted fact that children, while at school, need physical as well as mental culture. It is a pitiable sight—and it is by no means uncommon—to see some of our best educated young men and women quite broken down in health, simply because while they were cultivating the mind physical culture was entirely neglected. There is certainly, no need of this. Children delight to engage in good physical exercise, if encouraged in it, and it should be taught in our schools. The pupil who has not been taught in the necessity and advantage of physical development has, indeed, a defective education. This is especially true in reference to our girls. We should not have so many sickly women among the educated classes. The fact that the number is considerably greater among them than among the uneducated is a poor commentary on our educational system.

Besides the advantages of physical development it is well known that

THE PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION,

The London Advertiser makes the sensible suggestion that the time of holding the Provincial Exhibitions should be extended to two weeks, instead of three or four days as at present. So far as the exhibition of the live stock is concerned there are strong reasons for allowing the time to remain as it now is, as farmers do not care to have their horses and cattle so long away from their farms, and on heavy expense, but in other respects there are many advantages from extension. In the first place the crowd would not be so great as it now is, and visitors could give a more leisurely inspection to the articles on exhibit. Then there would not be the same difficulty in procuring accommodation at the public houses, and by the trains in travelling, as only a part would go in one week. There would be a much better opportunity, also, to the exhibitors and manufacturers of making sales, and finding customers—an advantage which, no doubt, the manufacturers would so much appreciate as to induce a good many more to become exhibitors than now do, and would encourage them to go to more expense to put their machinery into operation on the grounds, and submit to other practical tests. All these things, would give a permanence, an importance, and a value to the yearly exhibitions which they do not now possess. Let us have the experimental trial for a year or so at least.

MOODY AND SANKEY IN CHICAGO.—Chicago, Sep. 29th—Services preliminary to the opening of the Moody and Sankey meetings have been well attended to-day. Four hours of prayer in Farwell Hall were led by Chicago pastors—Parkhurst, Thompson, Eyarts and Goodwin. The demand for tickets to the first meetings Sunday at 8 a. m. and 4 p. m. is immense. The Tabernacle stands at the corner of Franklin and Monroe streets, on ground one hundred and sixty by one hundred and ninety, but contains eight thousand chairs, with complete arrangement for security and convenience. George S. Stebbins, of Boston, will lead the great choir. Mr. Cree, of Philadelphia, manages the details of the meeting. T. W. Harvey is chairman of the Executive Committee. Moody's headquarters are at the Grand Pacific Hotel.

We are pleased to notice the additional attractions that have been made to our school grounds, at the suggestion, we believe, of Mr. Mathison, Head Teacher. We should not have so many sickly women among the educated classes. The fact that the number is considerably greater among them than among the uneducated is a poor commentary on our educational system.

Besides the advantages of physical development it is well known that these school sports, if provided, make our schools far more attractive for the children, and in consequence, there will be fewer truants to report. We believe it will be freely admitted, too, that the children are much better prepared for study after good physical exercise has been indulged in each day. Lassitude and dullness are dispelled, and the mind is in a better condition for application. It is a well established physiological fact that a healthy mind requires a healthy body, and both therefore need culture.

The teachers and scholars of the Napanee school have worked with a will, in the erection of their new gymnasium. The poles and lumber were supplied to them, and the rest they have done of themselves, and most cheerfully was it done. We make mention of these facts, hoping that other schools may follow the example, and enjoy the like advantages.

There are excellent grounds in connection with our school building, but users of making sales, and finding customers—an advantage which, no doubt, the manufacturers would so much appreciate as to induce a good many more to become exhibitors than now do, and would encourage them to go to more expense to put their machinery into operation on the grounds, and submit to other practical tests. All these things, would give a permanence, an importance, and a value to the yearly exhibitions which they do not now possess. Let us have the experiment trial for a year or so at least.

MOODY AND SANKEY IN CHICAGO.—Chicago, Sep. 29th—Services preliminary to the opening of the Moody and Sankey meetings have been well attended to-day. Four hours of prayer in Farwell Hall were led by Chicago pastors—Parkhurst, Thompson, Eyarts and Goodwin. The demand for tickets to the first meetings Sunday at 8 a. m. and 4 p. m. is immense. The Tabernacle stands at the corner of Franklin and Monroe streets, on ground one hundred and sixty by one hundred and ninety, but contains eight thousand chairs, with complete arrangement for security and convenience. George S. Stebbins, of Boston, will lead the great choir. Mr. Cree, of Philadelphia, manages the details of the meeting. T. W. Harvey is chairman of the Executive Committee. Moody's headquarters are at the Grand Pacific Hotel.

Welland Canal. NOTICE.

CAPTAINS, Masters and Pilots of vessels entering or leaving the Welland Canal, via Port Colborne, are hereby informed that a Beacon is in course of construction at the outer end of the Shoal on the easterly side of the Harbour, at a place 530 feet east of the line of the range-lights which stand on the west pier, or within a short distance of where a large red buoy was moored.

The Beacon is octagonal in plan, and, when completed, will stand about 30 feet over the water surface. The respective sides will be painted red and white alternately, and a Ball, 3 feet in diameter, will be placed 6 feet over the top of the frame-work.

By order,

F. BRAUN,

THE GAS WORKS.—The apparatus is now being put in the gas house, and in a week or so everything will begin to assume a good business shape. The house and works would well repay a visit.

If you want a tasty suit don't forget
SPENCER'S.

M. E. CHURCH.—Special religious services are now being conducted in the M. E. Church in Napanee, and there are good indications of a religious revival. The congregations are already increasing. On Sunday next the Quarterly meeting will be held in the church, and the sacrament administered.

The latest style of goods and clothing, at
SPENCER'S.

NO WONDER.—The London Advertiser intimates that the Police Court in that city is now being held in the old quarters, and the reporters are no longer required to take the reports on their shirt cuffs. We wonder if, in these hard times, newspaper men will afford to wear clean ones, even though police notes are not taken on them.

Swell Suits at Spencer's.

THE WHIG.—The Kingston Whig has just moved into larger and more convenient quarters, so as to give increased accommodation to increased business. The Whig is one of the oldest papers in the Province, but it loses nothing of its vigor by age. Under the control of Mr. Pense it is much more ably conducted and more prosperous and influential than ever before. We look upon it as the best sustained daily published in the Province, east of Toronto.

If you want the best sitting pants go to SPENCER.

MUCH NEEDED IMPROVEMENTS.—We are glad to notice that our Town Fathers have commenced, in good earnest, to "mend their ways." New crossings are being made in several places along Duudas street, so that probably, the street may be hereafter crossed without the contact to mud

FIRST SNOW.—On Sunday afternoon last there was a slight fall of hail, and on Wednesday afternoon a very slight flurry of snow. Truly "the winter of discontent" is upon us.

ACQUITTED.—The Grand Jury at the Assizes last week, threw out the case against Hiram Young, who was committed for trial on a charge of arson. The evidence was not deemed of a strong enough nature to warrant finding a true bill.

FALL OPENINGS.—During the past week our dry goods merchants have had their openings of fall and winter goods, millinery, mantles, &c. Their stores were all very handsomely fitted up, and were visited by crowds of people. We have had neither time nor space this week to go into any account of how the different shops were fixed up.

ENTERPRISE.—Read the mammoth advertisements of Messrs Slaven & Ironside and Fraser & Rennie on our outside page. These gentlemen know how to make business in the hard times. They have good news for the people, and they take the proper course to let them know it.

My Cost Sale for Cash only lasts a short time, at SPENCER'S.

A GOOD ENTERPRISE.—On Saturday last Mr. Geo. Soby, of Shannonville, brought to town a car load of potatoes, from Three Rivers, Qc. The potatoes were good, and sold like hot cakes at 85c a bag. There is a likelihood of a scarcity of potatoes this winter, and the man who will bring the "Murphys" here, and thus bring down prices, will benefit himself and the public. Let us have a good deal more, George.

THE PICTON SHOW.—The steamers Norfolk and Shannon left on Tuesday morning for Picton, with very few passengers, for the County Show. Many from here had intended going, but the morning looked very treacherous and consequently kept people home. We are informed the show was by no means a success, so far as the articles shown were concerned. There was a big crowd of people present, however.

Bound to do business at
SPENCER'S.

CHANGE OF FIRM.—The business heretofore carried on by Spencer & Hogan, as clothiers, &c., has been dissolved, and now Mr. Henry Spencer has taken full control of the same. Notwithstanding various rumors were afloat, Henry is still a "solid man," will be through in a couple of weeks, and nothing then remains but the touches of the painters brush.

The windows are now in, and to say that they are neat, or even beautiful, would not give an adequate idea of them. The beautiful circular window in the North end, the gift of Dr. Rutan, is one of the finest windows of the kind that we ever saw. The colours are neat and delicate, and beautifully blended. There is, also, a beautiful memorial window in the east side, the present of R. Wright, Esq. in memory of their lovely child, who died last year. Two other windows are of coloured glass, with metal sash, and very neat and chaste in their design.

The entire internal appearance is quite different from any other church in these counties, and the contrast is a pleasing one. Great credit is due to the Rev. Mr. Bogert, and his energetic assistants, of the Building Committee, for their energy and perseverance, under difficulties of no ordinary character, in the erection of this fine church.

THE GRAIN MARKET.—We are glad to know that, at last grain is beginning to come in pretty freely. The farmers who have been waiting, for some time, for a rise have given up waiting longer. The prices in Napanee and Mill Point remain about as they were:—viz., 65 and 70 cents per bushel for barley, according to grade. Mr. Baker informs us that large quantities are coming into Mill Point also, where the same rates are being paid. The Grangers have entered a store house in Napanee and are storing theirs, hoping for better rates.

The Toronto papers of yesterday give the following report:—

Barley—The market was firm a week ago, and on Friday and Saturday it declined fully four cents. At the close of last week No. 1 sold at 78c. and No. 2 was worth 72c. f. o. b. Yesterday the favourable turn taken by American markets made prices firmer, and to-day there were sales of No. 1 at 80c. f. o. b. in car lots. Bids of 82c. f. o. b., were subsequently refused. The grade this evening appears to be worth 81c. @ 82c. No. 2 also improved since Saturday, and there were sales of car lots to day at 73c. f. o. b., a figure which fairly represents closing prices.

At Belleville barley is quoted, yesterday, at from 50 to 70 cents. At Picton, according to the "Times" 60 cents.

"IN THE MORNING SOW THY SEED."

Solomon was a wise man. It is better to sow late than not to sow at all; but early sowing is the best. If a thing is worth doing at all the sooner it is done the better. It is interesting to see an old man sowing the seeds of knowledge in mastering the elements of some department of learning; but the interest we have in it is not without a tinge of painfulness. There is something melancholy about a man doing with difficulty at fifty what he could have done with ease at twelve, these hard times, newspaper men will afford to wear clean ones, even though police notes are not taken on them.

MUCH NEEDED IMPROVEMENTS.—We are glad to notice that our Town Fathers have commenced, in good earnest, to "mend their ways." New crossings are being made in several places along Duudas street, so that probably, the street may be hereafter crossed without the contact to mud formerly experienced. The dangerous and unsightly ridges, left by the gas company's men, are being levelled down and the stones broken fine. Chief Allen, is giving the work good personal inspection and a good job is being done.

I am determined not to forget my good old Credit Customers, and will sell to them just the same as ever. SPENCER.

Cash I want and must have it. SPENCER.

A GOOD PAPER.—The Temperance Union, the organ of the United Temperance Order, is now printed and published in Belleville. It is printed in the office of McCullough & Hynes, and certainly does credit to their skill. The editor, Rev. Mr. Austin, is also deserving of much credit. From a pretty thorough acquaintance with the temperance journals of Canada we have little hesitation in putting the Union now at the head of the list of Canadian temperance papers. It has a remarkably clean face, and apparently clean hands also.

My Cutter gives the most perfect satisfaction. SPENCER.

DUNKIN IN FRONTENAC.—The temperance men of Frontenac are beginning to arouse themselves in regard to the coming election in that County in regard to the Dunkin By-Law. At a meeting held on Friday last, Committees were appointed for each township in the County to make such arrangements as may be deemed necessary for the success of the by-law. An advisory Committee was also appointed, consisting of Messrs T. W. Casey, of Napanee; Mayor Britton, Kingston; Dr. Dickson,

CHANGE OF FIRM.—The business heretofore carried on by Spencer & Hogan, as clothiers, &c., has been dissolved, and now Mr. Henry Spencer has taken full control of the same. Notwithstanding various rumors were afloat, Henry is still a "solid man," and is determined to push the tailoring business still more than ever. Orders for clothing entrusted to him will be sure to give satisfaction, as the services of a first-class cutter have been secured.

A big excitement over Spencer's Cost Sale for Cash.

GIRARD'S SECRET.—Stephen Girard used to say in his old age: "I have always considered advertising liberally and long to be the great medium of success in business, and ther pelude to wealth. And I have made it an invariable rule to advertise in the dullest times as well as the busiest, long experience having taught me that money thus spent is well laid out, as by continually keeping business before the public it has secured many sales that I would have otherwise lost."

$20 Suits at $16 for cash, at SPENCER'S.

MONEY NEEDED.—In consideration of the exceedingly hard times the Publisher of the Express has put himself to no little inconvenience throughout this year, so as to make it easy for those doing business with him. It will now be necessary, however, for persons owing for subscription or otherwise to make payment. Money is needed, and if each one will hand in the small amount due by him there will be no difficulty. Friends, don't compel us to use "legal suasion," as we don't want to do that, unless other means fail. You will feel happier and more content when you have paid the printer.

If he had so ved early probably the crop would have not only been, in all probability, in kind but the yield would have been larger. He would have had in every respect a better return for his labour.

If a man desires to get wealth, early sowing is the best. If, in this respect, you would make the best of life, begin early. The earlier in life a man acquires a thorough knowledge of this business the better. The most skillful artisan as a rule, is the one who learned his trade young. LITERARY ENTERTAINMENT.—The entertainment under the auspices of the Good Templars at the Town Hall, on Thursday evening last proved to be one of the best of the season. The audience, however, was not as large as the entertainment deserved. The musical part of the programme was borne by Mrs. G. Mills, Miss Maud Day, Miss Pennycook, and Miss Mary Fraser, and Messrs. Middleton and Mills. All of the the singers acquitted themselves in a very creditable manner, and elicited hearty applause. The accompaniments were played by Miss Herring, who presides at the instrument with a great deal of ability. The literary part was furnished by Messrs. Tilley and Matheson, of the High School, and Messrs. R. S. Neville, W. S. Williams and J. A. Dawson. The organ used on the occasion was kindly furnished by Henry & Bro. The nett proceeds amounted to about $15

FAREWELL SOCIAL.—The farewell social to Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Lane, in the M. E. Church, on Tuesday evening last, was poorly attended. Those who were there, however, spent a very pleasant evening. A very interesting feature of the meeting was the presentation of an address and a large album to Mrs. Lane, by the members of the choir. Also the presentation of life-size portraits to the retiring pastor and wife, and a sum of money to the former. The portraits were executed by Mr. Hulett, who bore the biggest share of the expense. The chair was filled by A. L. Morden, Esq., and addresses were delivered by the local ministers and others.

THE NEW CHURCH.—The New Episcopalian Church of this town, is rapidly approaching completion, and it is but faint praise to it to say that, when completed, it will be an ornament and a credit to Napanee. The walls of the building are of the most substantial character, and its external appearance is good, but the internal finish is certainly of a superior order. The plasterers have about completed their work, and they have done it well. The joiner work is also nearly completed. The pews are of a neat and elaborate design, and well in keeping with the general style of the architecture. The joiners have had in every respect a better return for his labour.

If a man desires to get wealth, early sowing is the best. If, in this respect, you would make the best of life, begin early. The earlier in life a man acquires a thorough knowledge of this business the better. The most skillful artisan as a rule, is the one who learned his trade young. We should not notice what the sauce-box says, only that these other people who have more sense, who view the subject in just the same light that our "devil" does. They imagine that the longer they can put this matter off the better bargain they can make.

These persons always leave out of the calculation the risk they run in putting off the insurance of their life to somewhat late in life. They forget there are thousands who die every year without having their lives insured, who, for many years, fully inspected to insure. They put it off to a more convenient season, as they hoped that by delaying the matter they could get the more for their money. The longer they lived without any indication of declining health or approaching dissolution, the more careless did they become about it, until symptoms began to develop themselves which put life insurance beyond their power forever. Others who have been acting in the same way have been stricken down by accident in a moment. There are thousands of suffering widows, and dependant orphans to-day, who have been placed in the distressing position which they occupy to-day by this wrong way of looking at the matter of life insurance.

The earlier one begins to invest in life insurance, the cheaper is the rate. Then if the insurance is on the straight life plan, payable at death, and the assured desires it he can pay up the whole premium in a given number of years, say ten years, before the burdens of life have come very heavily upon him. In this way the whole thing is disposed of and out of the way, and there is just so much cash at the credit of the assured's family payable whenever his death may occur, or if the insurance is effected on the endowment plan, the assured may by beginning

In respect to life assurance as well as other things, we believe the wiser way is to begin early. In the morning sow thy seed. We are sure if our estate and philosophic friend C. F. To Mr. W. HANSON.

DEAR SIR,—As executor to the estate of the late A. J. Andrews, I beg to thank the Travellers Accident Insurance Company, through you, for the prompt payment of his claim of $75, for an accident which he received about a month before his death, whilst bathing in the bay.

By his Attorney, H. L. GEDDES.

TREATING THE WRONG DISEASE.

Many times women call upon their family physicians, one with dyspepsia, another with palpitation, another with trouble of the breast, another with pain here and there, and in this way they all present alike to themselves and to easy-going and indifferent doctors, separate and distinct diseases. Assuming them to be such, he prescribes his pills and potions; when, in reality, all these symptoms are caused by some uterine disorder. While they are thus only able perhaps to palliate the disease for a time, they are ignorant of the cause, and encourage their practice until large bills are made, when the suffering patients are no better in the end, but probably worse for the delay, treatment, and complications made, and which a proper medicine, directed to the cause, would have entirely removed, thereby instituting health and comfort instead of prolonged misery.

From Miss Corinda E. St. Clair, Shade, Athens Co., O., Oct. 14th 1872.

"Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.,—Your Favorite Prescription is working almost like a miracle on me, I am better already than I have been for over two years."

From Ella A. Schofer, Zanesville, Ind., Aug. 3, 1873:

"Dr. Pierce.—I received the medicine you sent me, and began using it immediately. As a result of the treatment, I feel better than I have for three years."

From Mrs. John K. Hamlin, Odell, Ill., Mar. 16, 1872:

"Dr. Pierce.—The Favorite Prescription has done me good, which I am very thankful for."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is sold by Druggists.

WHAT THEY SAY OF IT! A FEW FACTS FOR THE PEOPLE.—There are but few preparations of medicines which have withstood the impartial judgment of the people for any great length of time. One of these is Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Read the following and be convinced:—Thos. Robinson, Farnham Centre, P. Q., writes, "I have been afflicted with rheumatism or he ast ten years, and have tried many remedies without any relief, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. and since then have had no attack of it. I would recommend it to all."—J. H. Earl, Hotel Keeper, West Shefford, P. Q., writes, "I have been troubled with liver complaint for several years, and have tried different medicines with little or no benefit, until I tried Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, which gave me immediate relief, and I would say that I have used it since with the best effect. No one should be without it. I have tried it on my horses in cases of cuts, wounds, etc., and think it is equally as good for horse as for man."—A. Maybee, Merchant, Warkworth, writes, "I have sold some hundreds of bottles of Electric Oil, and it is pronounced by the public, 'one of the best medicines they have ever used;' it has done wonders in healing and relieving pain, sore throats, etc., and is worthy of the greatest confidence."—Joseph Rusan, Township Percy, writes, "I was persuaded to try Thomas' Electric Oil for a lame knee? which troubled me for three or four years, and I never found anything like it for curing lameness. It is a great public benefit."—A. M. Hamilton, Warkworth, writes, "For weeks I was troubled with a swelled ankle, which annoyed me very much. Mr. Maybee of this place induced me to try Electric Oil, and before one bottle was used I was cured. It is a most remarkable medicine. Sold by all medicine dealers. Price, 25cts.

A BEAUTIFUL HORSE.—There is nothing that can contribute so much to render the horse beautiful and elegant, to improve his condition and make him all that is desirable, as "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy;" it has been used by many persons who own valuable carriage and other horses with decided success, and so well pleased are they with it that they always keep it on hand in case of emergency; it may be given at all times with perfect safety.—Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. Is your throat sore, or are you annoyed by a constant cough? If so, use promptly "Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers." They will give you instant relief. They relieve the air passages of phlegm or mucous, and allay inflammation, and no safer remedy can be had for coughs, colds, or any complaint of the throat or lungs, and if taken in time their efficacy will soon be proved. Sold by all druggists and country dealers at 25 cents a box.

The Centennial Exhibition at the close of its 115 days, was 500,000 ahead of that in number of paying visitors, and nearly $1,000,000 beyond it in the cash proceeds from visitors. The Vienna proceeds at the gates were $993,025.25. The Philadelphia proceeds at the gates to Saturday night were $1,884,534.

The Chinese always leave a meal at a grave, that a dead person may eat on the way to eternity. In former times it was customary in Nevada to leave the food exposed, and the loafers who watched from a neighboring clump of trees were wont to regale themselves with these dainties. "Nothing is so pleasant," says the Virginia City Chronicle, "as to see a crowd of hoodlums seated on a new-made Chinese grave, going through a free lunch, and drinking the deceased's good health in his own rice brandy. Now, however, the Chinese place a guard over the grave until night, after which the wild animals and birds get the benefit of the repast."

PICKLED CUCUMBERS IN SUMMER.

It is often desirable to have new pickles in summer time, and after sliced cucumbers have ceased to be a novelty, the small ones pickled are an agreeable change. They can be made at short notice by the following method, which our folks have fully tested during the past few weeks: Cover 100 small cucumbers with a pint of salt, and add a small piece of alum. Then pour boiling water over them, and keep closely covered a few hours. Take them out, wipe dry and lay in jars with a few red peppers, allspice, a tablespoonful of mustard seed, pepper corn and cloves. These condiments may be varied or changed to suit taste. Then pour over the whole sufficient hot vinegar to cover the pickles. When cold, they will be ready for the table and as green and fresh looking as when picked. Cucumbers picked early in the morning may be made ready for tea the same afternoon, which is often a desirable consideration to housewives. Pickles made thus will keep any length of time desired, if not eaten.

Soap suds may be used with great advantage for manuring grape vines. Downing says he has seen an Isabella grape vine produce 3,000 fine clusters of well-ripened fruit in a season, by the liberal use of manure and soap-suds from the weekly wash. The effects of soap-suds on other plants are remarkable.

All small birds should be well picked, drawn and wiped inside and outside, but never wet, as it destroys their flavor to put them in water. Stuff with dressing made of bread crumbs and butter, highly seasoned. Sew up the opening and truss like larger birds. Roast from twenty to thirty minutes. Serve on toast, and with currant or some other acid jelly.

Fuchsias require more water than geraniums and roses, yet it is impor-

been done intelligently, and with a definite object in view, a mixture of varieties usually results in their deterioration. Having determined on the kind desired, the earliest and best specimens of that should be chosen for producing seed. It is bad policy to use the earliest and best for other purposes and save seed from the plants that have been culled over; nor should the good, bad and indifferent, be all mixed together and this average product be used for seed. This is sure to lead to degeneracy. The most promising plants having been set apart for seed raising, they should have the very best of cultivation. The idea is not to get a large, unnatural, succulent growth but a strong, vigorous, healthy growth. If the plant is of a branching nature, the seed from the lower and weaker branches should be rejected, and that from the more central vigorous ones alone be saved. It is important that all seeds intended for planting should be well ripened up before being harvested. For other purposes it is sometimes best to harvest before the stage of thorough ripeness has been reached. As, for instance, wheat will make more and better flour if harvested when in the dough state, or from a week to ten days before ripeness; but if intended for seed it should stand till it has become, so to speak, dead ripe. All seeds in this state of complete ripeness have all their constituents in the highest state of development. Such seeds will preserve their germinative power under greater extremes of temperature and humidity, and they will retain their vitality longer under the same condition, than will these gathered when less mature.

When the time comes for harvesting, a large portion of the stalk, straw, branch, or whatever it grew upon, should be placed in a dry, cool, airy place till thoroughly dried out. The most suitable conditions for this are probably found in an open building or shed through which the air can readily pass. It should be left in this condition till thoroughly dry. During this drying process considerable nutriment will be conveyed from the stalk to the seed, thus increasing their plumpness and weight. When thoroughly dry the seeds may be threshed or shelled at any convenient time. The seeds should then be placed in the most favorable conditions to keep and preserve their vitality. These conditions are that Fuchsias require more water than geraniums and roses, yet it is important not to give them so much that the soil becomes sodden, as the small, fibrous roots will decay if kept too moist. But if watered twice a week with weak liquid manures, or with a tablespoonful of guano, dissolved in a gallon of hot water, and allowed to stand until nearly cool, buds will often appear where nothing but leaves have been seen for months.—Cor. Country Gentleman.

Here is the best recipe for making Charlotte Russe: Take one quart cream, beat to a froth (best and quickest done with a Dover egg-beater), sweeten with about four tablespoonfuls of sugar; then flavor. Put one-half box gelatine in milk sufficient to moisten it; set where it will warm gradually; stir often; when dissolved add to the prepared cream. Line a dish with sponge-cake sliced, or with "lady-fingers," pour the cream into it, and set it on a cool place.—Cor. Chicago Tribune.

SQUASH FRITTERS.—Take three medium-sized squashes, pare, cut up and boil tender, mash and drain thoroughly, season with pepper and salt, add one cupful of milk (cream is better), the yolk of two eggs, and sufficient sifted flour to make a very stiff batter, or they will be hard to turn; lastly, stir in the beaten whites of the eggs. When thoroughly dry the seeds may be threshed or shelled at any convenient time. The seeds should then be placed in the most favorable conditions to keep and preserve their vitality. These conditions are that they be kept free from the influence of heat, frost and moisture; though it is true that many seeds will endure great extremes of all of these, yet it is best not to expose seed designed for planting to any great extremes. Perhaps the best way to preserve seed, where but a small quantity is kept, is to tie up securely in paper sacks and hang up in a cool, airy, dry place. Care should be taken to have them out of the reach of mice, as they are quite fond of many kinds of seeds, and will prove quite destructive of them if allowed access to them.

As to the length of time that seeds may be kept without losing their vitality, there seems to be a variation with almost every variety of seed, and with every different method of preserving. While seeds can be so easily raised, it will not pay to run any risk by planting seed of doubtful vitality. By following the above hints every one may have a supply of their own of reliable seeds to draw from, and such a course will scarcely fail to result in an improvement in cultivated plants.—Ohio Farmer.

FARM FOR SALE. A Rare Opportunity.

The undersigned offers for sale his valuable and desirable farm, being part of Lots 27 and 28, Seventh Concession of North Fredericksburgh, known as Mount Pleasant.

The farm is beautifully located two miles from Napanee, on the leading County Road to Newburgh. It contains 125 acres, 25 of which is well timbered and very valuable. The other 100 acres are in a fine state of cultivation, and well fenced. It has been largely devoted to dairy purposes for some years, and is therefore in a superior condition. The land is well underdrained, having nearly 2 miles of underdrains, mostly tile drains.

There is a good dwelling house, nearly new, with all necessary outbuildings. There are large and well arranged barns and sheds, with extensive stabling for both cows and horses.

There is a large orchard, in an excellent fruit bearing condition.

The farm is splendidly watered. Besides two good wells, there is an overflowing stream of spring water, where the stock are always well supplied.

The place is most desirably situated for a good home. It is in sight of Napanee, and the roads always good. Immediately opposite the house is a first-class school. The location is a most healthy one.

MILK BUSINESS.

The subscriber has now a well established business of supplying a large number of customers in town with milk, which

Have your fat hot and fry brown. Prepared in this way, you have a dish that could not ail to satisfy the palate of any one, even were they as dainty as some of the old Roman dignitaries, who feasted on the tongues and brains of rare birds.

SCOTCH CAKE.—Two pounds flour, one pound butter, half pound powdered sugar; chop flour and butter quite soft by setting near fire. Knead in the sugar. Roll into a sheet not quite half an inch thick; cut in two-inch squares. When you want them to look nice put a few sugar comforts in center; they will stick by pressing them on with your finger. Any confectioner will sell five cents worth; that is enough for a batch. Don't get all one color. Bake light brown. Put in stone crock for a few days. They will get soft—just melt in your mouth.

SAVING SEEDS.

A very important factor in all good farming is to have good seed to start with. And while the seedsman is a very important and member of society to whom application should frequently be made for something new, or for a change of seed, yet in the main the farmer, often the gardeners, should raise his own seed. In order to the highest success in this enterprise there are several rules that should be observed. Some of these I will name. First, the seed selected should be of some pure, unmixed variety, for, except in some rare cases in which the operation has them. As to the length of time that seeds may be kept without losing their vitality, there seems to be a variation with almost every variety of seed, and with every different method of preserving. INGENIOUS GERMAN INVENTIONS.

A Hartford gentleman recently received from a friend in Germany samples of several recent inventions in that country. One is a gun cane, resembling bamboo, and the only feature in which it differs from an ordinary cane in appearance is a small steel handle, pressure on which discharges the weapon. The barrel, rifled, is of thirty caliber, and the muzzle, when the cane is used in walking, is stopped by a piece of gutta percha with steel ferule. To load the weapon the cane is pulled from either end, and the parts slide apart about two inches, uncovering the chamber in which the cartridge is placed. On closing the parts together the gun is ready except to set the trigger, the firing mechanism working on the same principle as a needle gun.

Another pretty invention of German silver is about the size of an opera brand cigar, and occupies less space in the pocket than a match-safe. It is a folding cork-screw, and on separating the parts of the German silver cases, cylindrical in form, the screw comes out, and by partially pushing the case together, the screw is firmly set in position, its square shank fitting into a square slot in the case.

A patent stopper for bottles is made of porcelain, an inch long, with rubber rings midway. On placing this in the bottle and turning the stopper the rings are expanded, hermetically sealing the bottle and making it impossible to remove the stopper by pulling. Another stopper of the same kind has a key at the top. On turning this key the rings are expanded, and then the key being removed, it is impossible for anyone to get the stopper out without a duplicate key. The gentleman showing this invention says that in Germany it is used to prevent servants and others from taking wine from bottles that have been opened and only partly emptied, and that this practical advantage has brought it into large demand among the economical people in that country. —New Haven Palladium.

The farm is beautifully located two miles from Napanee, on the leading County Road to Newburgh. It contains 125 acres, 25 of which is well timbered and very valuable. The other 100 acres are in a fine state of cultivation, and well fenced. It has been largely devoted to dairy purposes for some years, and is therefore in a superior condition. The land is well underdrained, having nearly 2 miles of underdrains, mostly tile drains.

There is a good dwelling house, nearly new, with all necessary outbuildings. There are large and well arranged barns and sheds, with extensive stabling for both cows and horses.

There is a large orchard, in an excellent fruit bearing condition.

The farm is splendidly watered. Besides two good wells, there is an overflowing stream of spring water, where the stock are always well supplied.

The place is most desirably situated for a good home. It is in sight of Napanee, and the roads always good. Immediately opposite the house is a first-class school. The location is a most healthy one.

From Dr. Duncan McCallum, Montreal.

I, the undersigned, have been suffering very much for the last two years from Rheumatism in the ankle joint, so much that I was often prevented from attending to my calling, but three applications of Dr. Burnbaum's Rheumatism and Gout Remedy gave me that relief from pain and stiffness which I did not experience for the last two years, and after eight days' use of that remedy, I find myself entirely cured.

I owe this statement to the public, to the profession, and to the merits of the genuine article.

One of the Testimonials.

From Dr. Duncan McCallum, Montreal.

I, the undersigned, have been suffering very much for the last two years from Rheumatism in the ankle joint, so much that I was often prevented from attending to my calling, but the free applications of Dr. Birnbaum's Rheumatism and Gout Remedy have me that relief from pain and stiffness which I did not experience for the last two years, and after eight days' use of that remedy, I find myself entirely cured.

I owe this statement to the public, to the profession, and to the merits of the genuine article

FARM FOR SALE.

That desirable farm, adjoining the Corporation of Napanee, on the Selby Road, containing 100 acres of good farm land, about 90 acres of which is under cultivation, the balance timbered land, is offered for sale. It is situated on the south half of Lot 21, 3rd Concession of Richmond, and is well fenced, principally cedar. There is a young orchard on the premises, just commencing to bear, good frame dwelling, barn, shed, and other out-houses. The land has been thoroughly freed from stumps or stones, and is in a clear state, so that a reaper could be put in any field, without fear of injury. Two never-failing wells of water are situated near the buildings, and for watering purposes Saccor Creek runs a cross the farm, which has never been known to run dry.

For further particulars apply personally on the premises, or by letter to
